As a component of the consumer's discretionary sector, cinemas tend to work well when customers have disposable and bad income when the economy is struggling or during times of market turbulence. The COVID-19 pandemic destroyed the cinemas as a group due to the assistance of plumbing, a consequence of the economic recession and because millions of consumers decided to take refuge at home. The industry is slowly recovering. The biggest names in the film industry include AMC Entertainment Holdings Inc. e IMAX Corp. The national theatre market is expected to publish mail office receipts of $6.8 billion this year, compared to 4,600Damm in 2021, but far from the approximately 10,000 million annual ones received in the years prior to the pandemic, according to the publication of the Numbers industry. With the la The summer season approaches the theater owners await a strong sale of tickets after a sale of fillers' tickets in early 2012 such as "The Batman" and "Spider-Man: No Way Home". These and other box office sitos have helped boost a strong increase in sales growth so far in 2022 in comparison with the same peer of the previous year. Although there is no reference point for the cinema compavales that are negotiated, a à EtiI reference element is the Russell 1000 ändice, which has provided a total performance of -13.2% during the past year. This market action figure and all statistics in the tables below are from June 14, 2022. Here are the three best film actions with the best value, the most important growth and the Better performance. These are film shares with more than 12 -month sales price drop (p/s). For companies in the early stages of development or industries that suffer from large clashes, this can be replaced as an approximate measure of the value of a company. The P/S relationship shows how much is paying for the shares for each day of sales generated. Best Value Film film stocks (IMAX) 15.26 0.9 3.3 Source: à e And Cinemark Holdings Inc.. Cinemark is a company that, through its subsidiaries, has and operates movie cinemas. Compañã ± äã has operations throughout the United States and Latin America. On May 6, the company reported profits for the first quarter of 2022. The net pages were significantly reduced after year (interannual) as the total income quadrupled. This popularity and the development of AMC as a "meme stock" was a key driver of the company's share price. AMC reported Q1 2022 results on May 9. Net losses narrowed sharply YOY as total revenues rose more than fivefold. Strong sales growth of tickets, food, beverages, and other items drove AMC's results. IMAX Corp.: IMAX is a Canada-based entertainment technology company. It specializes in developing motion-picture technologies and offering large-format motion-picture presentations. The company does not generally own theaters, but sells or leases its IMAX Theater System to theater operators. In late April, IMAX reported a significant expansion to its network of theaters in Asia. The company is partnering with Major Cineplex to provide three new IMAX with Laser systems in Thailand, as well as two theaters in Japan in partnership with AEON Entertainment. These are the movie theater stocks with the highest YOY sales growth for the most recent quarter. Rising sales can help investors identify companies that are able to grow revenue through organic or new ways, and find growing companies that have not yet reached profitability. In addition, earnings per share can be significantly influenced by accounting factors that may not reflect the overall strength of the business. However, sales growth can also be potentially misleading about the strength of a business, because growing sales on money-losing businesses can be harmful if the company has no plan to reach profitability.
